Angela Muganwa

Angela Muganwa is the Employment Manager with TotalLink2 Community. Angela brings an extraordinary blend of real-world experience and academic excellence, presenting a dynamic and empathetic approach to employment services.

Having spent over a decade working with nonprofits like Kinship United, JCFS, and the Josselyn Center, Angela has adept experience in community support with a niche in employment services, focusing on empowering people with disabilities to find meaningful employment. She has masterfully navigated the local business community, representing clients with skill and dedication, and will continue to do so with TotalLink.

Angela completed her undergraduate studies in Criminology and earned her Master's in International Development Studies from London South Bank University in the U.K. Her academic experiences helped her cultivate a deep understanding of societal complexities that she now applies to her role in employment management.

Angela was born in Kampala, Uganda, and moved to London when she was young. She now resides in Evanston with her husband, Denis. They have three boys and are in the process of adopting another.
